

ANNE GORDON

SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT OF MARKETING, MEDIA AND COMMUNICATIONS

Anne Gordon is the senior vice president of marketing, media and communications for the Philadelphia Eagles. In this role, Gordon oversees the organization's marketing, as well as its media assets, including its television programming and its radio, digital, social media and print content. She also oversees the Eagles public relations group - both football and business relations - and the team's community relations department with its focus on Eagles Care.

Gordon has been with the Eagles since 2012. She has a broad background in media and was an investor and former partner in the private investment firm of Dubilier & Company. Prior to that, Gordon was the managing editor and vice president of news for The Philadelphia Inquirer.

Gordon is a 2001 Eisenhower Fellow who studied media issues in Finland and Sweden, with a special emphasis on mobile research and development with Nokia and Ericsson. She is an avid athlete who enjoys biking, swimming and weight training. She is married and has a son.