

TED WILLIAMS

PRO SCOUT

22ND YEAR IN NFL / 22ND IN PHILADELPHIA

COLLEGE: CAL POLY-POMONA

Ted Williams enters his second season in the Eagles' scouting department after spending the previous 20 seasons as a member of Philadelphia's coaching staff. Williams previously served as the Eagles tight ends coach from 2013-14 after serving as the team's running backs coach for 16 seasons from 1997-2012.

Williams also served as a tight ends coach for two seasons from 1995-96 under head coach Ray Rhodes.

Under Williams direction in 2014, TE Zach Ertz continued to develop into a playmaker, recording 58 catches for 702 yards and three touchdowns. Ertz also hauled in a 2014 NFL-high 15 receptions for 115 yards at Washington in Week 16.

In 2013, Williams was part of an offense that helped set Eagles franchise records in points, total net yards, touchdowns, passing yards and fewest turnovers. Under Williams' direction, the Eagles 14.2 yards per catch was the highest by any team since the 2000 St. Louis Rams (14.5).

As running backs coach, Williams tutored a 1,000-yard rusher eight times, including the 1,309-yard performance by LeSean McCoy in 2011. McCoy, who earned All-Pro honors and a Pro Bowl bid for the first time in his career, set a team record with 20 total touchdowns, including a franchise-best 17 on the ground.

McCoy, who gained 1,080 yards in 2010, broke the Eagles all-time rookie rushing record with 637 yards in 2009, while Leonard Weaver became the second Eagle ever to earn Pro Bowl honors from the fullback position.

Williams has also earned praise for his work with Brian Westbrook and Duce Staley during their tenures in Philadelphia. Williams scouted Staley at the University of South Carolina and recommended that the Eagles make him their third round draft pick in 1997. Westbrook left the Eagles as the franchise's all-time leader in total yards from scrimmage, including the second most rushing yards in the Eagles record book.

In 2007, Westbrook broke franchise records for scrimmage yards (2,104) and receptions (90) en route to earning his second Pro Bowl berth and his first All-Pro selection from the Associated Press. Westbrook was the only NFL player to accumulate 700 yards in both rushing and receiving in 2004.

In 2003, Williams played a vital role as the Eagles employed a three-headed monster at running back (Correll Buckhalter, Duce Staley and Westbrook).

Prior to joining the Eagles, Williams coached at the University of Arizona, Washington State and on Terry Donahue's UCLA staff,

WILLIAMS' CAREER TIMELINE

1980-89	UCLA	Linebackers/ Running Backs
1991-93	Washington State	Offensive Coordinator/ Running Backs
1994	Arizona	Secondary
1995-96	Philadelphia Eagles	Tight Ends
1997-2012	Philadelphia Eagles	Running Backs
2013-14	Philadelphia Eagles	Tight Ends
2015-	Philadelphia Eagles	Pro Scout

BEHIND THE SCENES ...

Favorite team growing up: Los Angeles Dodgers

Favorite athlete growing up: Sandy Koufax

Biggest influence on your career: Dr. Barney Anooshian, a college professor at Cal Poly

On your iPod: Lord, I Believe

Favorite TV show of all-time: Hawaii 5-0

Favorite Book: Up the Down Staircase

Favorite Movie: Bullitt, starring Steve McQueen

Favorite Website: ESPN.com

If I was not in football, I'd be: Baseball coach

where he developed All-American linebackers Ken Norton, Jr. and Carnell Lake, as well as a number of heralded running backs.

Williams was a basketball and baseball star himself at Centennial High in Compton, CA. A 1966 graduate of CPP with a degree in biological sciences and physical education, Williams went on to earn a master's degree, a second undergraduate major in zoological science, and his teaching-administration credentials from Cal State-Los Angeles in 1968.

After serving more than a decade as a coach, teacher and athletic director at Compton (CA) High, Williams was named head coach at Los Angeles City College in 1980, but a short time later joined the UCLA staff.

Born in Lyons, TX, (11/17/43) Williams and his wife, Theresa, have three sons, Darryl, Donald and Daniel, and a daughter, Terri.

