

ALAN WOLKING

SOUTHEAST AREA SCOUT

6TH YEAR IN NFL / 6TH IN PHILADELPHIA

COLLEGE: OHIO STATE, NORTHWESTERN

Alan Wolking enters his sixth season with the Eagles and his fourth as the team's Southeast area scout. From 2011-12, Wolking served as Philadelphia's Midwest area scout.

Prior to joining the Eagles, Wolking was a graduate assistant coach at Northwestern University, where he worked with the defensive backs from 2008-10. He also served as a quality control coach, coordinating scout offense and special teams units and preparing scouting reports.

A native of Hudson, OH, Wolking served Ohio State's athletic department in various capacities while attending graduate school in 2007. In addition, Wolking coached high school football at Walter Payton College Prep (Chicago, IL) and Upper Arlington (Columbus, OH) high schools from 2003-2007. He received his undergraduate degree in marketing and transportation logistics from Ohio State University and attended graduate school at OSU and Northwestern University.

Born 9/17/1979 in Covington, KY, Wolking and his wife, Heather, currently reside in Charlotte, NC, and have one daughter, Kate, and one son, Will.

WOLKING'S CAREER TIMELINE

2003-07	Walter Payton College Prep & Upper Arlington (Columbus, OH) High School	Coach
2007	Ohio State	Various roles in athletic department
2008-10	Northwestern	Various coaching roles
2011-12	Philadelphia Eagles	Midwest Area Scout
2013-	Philadelphia Eagles	Southeast Area Scout